A Collection of Short Stories is an ambient electronic masterpiece produced by Mark Pritchard and Tom Middleton (collectively also known as Global Communication).

This first full-length by the duo, released as Reload, charted the dark side of the ambient-techno, long before it became popular.

A collection of four short stories each with the word 'fall' - in different definitions - as the underlying theme.

A Collection of Short Stories not only incorporates storylines of love and modern problems evident in today's society but also personal experiences of a miner's daughter. Author Gillian Fletcher-Edwards grew up in a mining family of the fifties and sixties, from which many of her stories and life philosophies grew. Marged Evans is the story of two people who drifted apart. Marged allowed the breakup to affect her life, but her receipt of a Christmas card from her long-lost lover changes everything. The Bully is apt for people of every age and culture and will encourage people to deal with bullies in a healthy manner. The Annual Outing is a reflection of the miner's holidays when, regardless of the weather, people in droves escaped the bleakness of mining life. The Cottage on the Hill: A Monologue illustrates how people are often undervalued for their work and general loyalty, passed over for yes-men. The Raindrop shows how people can change from being friendly to hostile when necessities are scarce. Fletcher-Edwards hopes that through her stories, people will not forget the struggles that miners familieswherever in the world they liveoften experience.

Reads like a conversation between friends. With these ten short stories, Rachel Small and Carrie Mumford have captured the essence of late-night secret-sharing. The stories will make you laugh, might make you cry, and are sure to stick with you long after you've finished reading them. Although each story stands alone, the collection has a powerful unity. None of These Are True is a raw collection of stories about love, uncertainty, and struggle that feels like a conversation between friends.
