I believe the deepest meanings are found in conjunction with a study of Sartre's existentialist philosophy. In Les Jeux Sont Faits (French for "the bets have been placed" or "the chips are down"), Sartre addresses existentialist themes of liberty, bad faith (which occurs when people use an excuse to deny that they are free), destiny, and anguish.

"Les Jeux Sont Faits (The Game Is Up)" to be misleading. Maybe I'm being picky. --^pirate 01:15, 30 January 2006 (UTC) No, that's quite valid. I've changed the text to: "Les Jeux Sont Faits, literally "The Games Are Done", though more commonly known translated as The Game Is Up" --Sycron 20:01, 5 February 2006 (UTC)

To unge døde får lov at vende tilbage til livet, hvis de i 24 timer kan leve sammen i altforglemmende kærlighed.

- Il m'a empoisonnée ? - Eh oui, madame. - Mais pourquoi ? pourquoi ? - Vous le gêniez, répond la vieille dame. Il a eu votre dot. Maintenant il lui faut celle de votre sœur. Eve joint les mains dans un geste d'impuissance et murmure, accablée : - Et Lucette est amoureuse de lui ! La vieille dame prend alors une mine de circonstance : - Toutes mes condoléances... Mais voulez-vous me donner une signature ? Machinalement, Eve se lève, se penche sur le registre et signe. - Parfait, conclut la vieille dame. Vous voilà morte officiellement. Eve hésite, puis s'informe : - Mais où il faut que j'aïlle ? - Où vous voudrez. Les morts sont libres.

In this bold new perspective on the United States–China power transition, Paul K. MacDonald and Joseph M. Parent examine all great power transitions since 1870. They find that declining and rising powers have strong incentives to moderate their behavior at moments when the hierarchy of great powers is shifting. How do great powers respond to decline? they ask. What options do great powers have to slow or reverse their descent? In Twilight of the Titans, MacDonald and Parent challenge claims that policymakers for great powers, unwilling to manage decline through moderation, will be pushed to extreme measures. Tough talk, intimidation, provocation, and preventive war, they write, are not the only alternatives to defeat. Surprisingly, retrenchment tends not to make declining states tempting prey for other states nor does it promote domestic dysfunction. What retrenchment does encourage is resurrection. Only states that retrench have recovered their former position. MacDonald and Parent show how declining states tend to behave, what policy options they have to choose from, how rising states respond to decline, and what conditions reward which strategies. Using case studies that include Great Britain in 1872 and 1908, Russia in 1888 and 1903, and France in 1893 and 1924, Twilight of the Titans offers clear evidence that declining powers have a wide array of options at their disposal and offers guidance on how to use the right tools at the right time. The result is a comprehensive rethinking of power transition and hegemonic war theories and a different approach to the policy problems that declining states face. What matters most, the authors write, is the strategic choices made by the great powers.

" La douleur scelle la mémoire " déclare Juan Villoro au souvenir d'une dent cassée contre le bitume de son quartier, le soir où Armstrong posa le premier pas sur la Lune. Les personnages des Jeux sont faits se sont eux aussi cassé une dent contre l'asphalte de la vie, fêlure secrète qui resurgit au coin d'un ring ou sur un stade de foot, dans le désert face au coyote ou dans les feuillets corrigés d'une maison d'édition, lors d'une confrontation décisive avec eux-mêmes. Que gagne-t-on à dévoiler ces faces cachées de nous-même, ne vaudrait-il pas mieux ne rien savoir ? Oui, mais quand le hasard s'en mêle, rien ne va plus au pays des récolteurs de peyotl et des joueurs de poker de la frontière mexicaine. Pour " comprendre ce qui commence au moment où l'on tombe en panne d'essence ", voici dix nouvelles du Mexicain Juan Villoro, empreintes d'un réalisme sauvage, parfois halluciné, où le destin saisit les êtres et les porte, comme un sang trouble et fiévreux, jusqu'au cœur le plus obscur de la vie. Les Jeux sont faits a obtenu le prix Xavier Villaurrutia en 1999.

This series of bibliographical references is one of the most important tools for research in modern and contemporary French literature. No other bibliography represents the scholarly activities and publications of these fields as completely.

The main subject of the book is best stated in a quote from C. S. Lewis: "Often we need not so much to be taught as to be reminded." As I said in the Foreword, "How many times over the years I have reached for a scrap of paper or underlined a passage or quotation in a book, noting something that seemed wise and useful. However, as I review my notes, I frequently come upon some guideline to positive thought or behavior that I have simply let drift from my memory and have neglected to practice." The remedy? That is the purpose of this book: to summarize, briefly enough for quick and regular review, words of wisdom I have found important enough to remember.
