Buildings that produce their own energy and respond to our everyday needs; simple management tools that improve the comfort of our homes making them more economical and connecting them to the world; safer, smarter and more sustainable towns and cities that provide greater mobility, improve communication and make life easier for everyone. These are just a few examples of the energy transformation that is underway. The energy world has entered a new chapter in its history, a digital age that will impact our lives as much as the advent of electricity did at the end of the 19th century, bringing with it a groundbreaking wave of innovations that blur the lines between the energy and the digital space. Across the urban and built environment, new technologies are already advancing the convergence of different economic models with the energy system and infrastructure. This will fundamentally change the energy landscape and give each one of us access to tailor-made energy solutions adapted to our needs and means. This book Energy 3.0 discusses how these changes will continue to

The working world was changing fast before COVID-19 and will evolve from here on in ways we can't anticipate or plan for. How must the Human Workplace field evolve to keep up, and how can HR practitioners navigate in this unfamiliar terrain? What is the mission of HR in these tumultuous times, and how can each of us find our voices to make every workplace a vibrant, human place? Liz Ryan, a former Fortune 500 SVP of HR and the world's most widely-read workplace advisor, shares a new frame for HR and an inspirational, practical message for HR professionals in RED-BLOODED HR: Essays on Human Resources as a Force for Good. Through these collected stories originally published on Forbes.com, LinkedIn, the Human Workplace blog and many other outlets, Liz paints a picture of HR as a force for good in organizations and in the world - as advocates for our coworkers, evangelists for trust-based workplaces and advisors to senior executives who benefit from our truths even when they don't want to hear them. RED-BLOODED HR is an essential read for HR people, business leaders, working people and anyone who shares the Human Workplace vision to reinvent work for

The energy industry is boiling over with changes. Deregulation, new opportunities in foreign fields and markets and environmental challenges are rushing together head-on to shape the energy and utilities business of the future. Extremely deep offshore wells in the Gulf of Mexico and offshore of West Africa are being drilled at immense cost. Meanwhile China has become a major energy importer and Russia has become a major exporter. In the U.S., Europe and Japan, renewable and alternative energy sources are developing quickly, including big breakthroughs in wind power and fuel cells. This exciting new reference book covers everything from major oil companies to electric and gas utilities, plus pipelines, refiners, retailers, oil field services and engineering. Petroleum topics include upstream and downstream. Additional topics include coal, natural gas and LNG. More than a dozen statistical tables cover everything from energy consumption, production and reserves to imports, exports and prices. Next, our unique profiles of the Energy 500 Firms are also included, with such vital details as executive contacts by title, revenues, profits, types of business, web sites, competitive advantage, growth plans and more. Purchasers of either the book or PDF version can receive a free copy of the company profiles database on CD-ROM, enabling key word search and export of key information, addresses, phone numbers and executive names with titles for every company profiled.
