Many organizations have found that the value to business operations and financial performance created by the marketing function has become very important. The need to demonstrate this importance has also become clear. The Marketing Handbook for Financial Advisors is the first book of its kind. Written by an industry leader in financial services marketing, this actionable handbook cuts through the fluff to help financial advisors truly learn how to market their practices better. The book isn't meant to be an academic exploration of marketing in the industry – it's a to-the-point explanation of how financial advisors can be smarter marketers written by a marketing professional who has worked with thousands of financial advisors.

Consumer needs and demands are constantly changing. Because of this, marketing science and finance have their own concepts and theoretical backgrounds for evaluating consumer-related challenges. However, examining the function of finance with a marketing discipline can help to better understand internal management processes and compete in today's market. The Handbook of Research on Decision-Making Techniques in Financial Marketing is a collection of innovative research that integrates financial and marketing functions to make better sense of the workplace environment and business-related challenges. Different financial challenges are taken into consideration while many of them are based on marketing theories such as agency theory, product life cycle, and optimal consumer experience. While highlighting topics including behavioral financing, corporate ethics, and Islamic banking, this book is ideally designed for financiers, marketers, financial analysts, marketing strategists, researchers, policymakers, government officials, academicians, students, and industry professionals.
